LONDON.—Mr. W. THOMAS, Nos. 19 and 21 Catherine Street, Strand.

PARIS.—Mr. E. MOURMANT, No. 20 Rue St. Marc.

In the Senate yesterday, Messrs. ROCKWELL and SUMNER presented petitions for the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law. The bill for the construction of a line of telegraph, connecting the Atlantic with the Pacific, was taken up and passed by a vote of 20 to 19. Mr. BROWN laid on the table a substitute he intends offering for the Homestead bill. The bill granting the right of way for a railroad through the Government grounds at Pensacola was passed. After an Executive Session the Senate adjourned.

The House of Representatives at an early hour proceeded to the consideration of Mr. BENNETT'S Land bill, which, after a short discussion, was postponed until the third Tuesday in December next. The bill making appropriations for the repair, preservation and completion of certain public works commenced under the River and Harbor bill was taken up. The amendments to the bill were discussed, and, without taking a vote, the Committee rose and the House adjourned.

The Steamship Asia, with three days later intelligence from Europe, is now fully due.

THE FUGITIVE LAW BEGINNING TO TUMBLE.

The outrageous Act of Congress which turned the northern States into a broad hunting-ground, where the chase of men, has been upheld by weaklings on two grounds: first, because it was believed to be a component part of a beneficent Compromise by which the Slavery question was settled forevermore, so that it never would again disturb our national politics; and secondly, because its complete constitutional validity was affirmed by the judicial tribunals. This is the sum and substance of all that has ever been said in its favor. Harkening to these two reasons, men have forgotten manhood, reason, the great right of private judgment, and prostrated themselves before the Jugernaut.

But even these things are losing their power. By the passage of the Nebraska bill the sanctity of the alleged Compromise has been turned to a mockery. It now appears that the slave power keeps no true, no plighted faith with Freedom, and that the Compromise, on which some people leaned, was only an audacious juggle. To the argument, then, that the Fugitive Act was part of a Compromise, the North has already returned an indignant hiss, saying: "If it be part of any such thing, you slaveholders have already destroyed the thing; no Compromise now 'exists to sway our judgment.' This is an important step for Freedom; but something more was necessary, and that would seem also to be at hand. The current of judicial authority, which has thus far been in favor of the Act, is at last beginning to turn.

Courts and Judges are regarded by many with something akin to superstition. For ourselves we have seen too much of them to doubt that they are men, weak, fallible, mortal, like their brethren in other spheres of life. To their judgments, when sustained by reason and the vital principles of the Constitution, we bow, but only then. To judgments affirming the constitutionality of the Fugitive Act we have never bowed. Reason and the vital principles of the Constitution have disowned all such decrees; and we have dwelt in the confident assurance that people would yet do the same. Chief Justice Roger
